

Letter on South Africa's IPRs from Publicly Financed R&D Regulations

Centre for Internet and Society | 2009-06-02

Pranesh Prakash

Being interested in legislations in developing nations styled after the United States' Bayh-Dole Act, CIS responded to the call issued by the South African Department of Science and Technology for comments to the Intellectual Property Rights from Publicly Financed Research and Development Regulations.
