

List of Blocked ‘Escort Service’ Websites

Centre for Internet and Society | 2016-06-15

Pranesh Prakash

Here is the full list of URLs that Indian ISPs were asked to block on Monday, June 13, 2016.

On April 20, 2016, DNA carried a report on a PIL seeking action against advertisements for prostitution in newspapers and on websites. That report noted that the Mumbai Police had obtained an order from a magistrates court to block 174 objectionable websites, and had sent a list to the "Group Coordinator (Cyber Laws)" within the Department of Electronics and IT. On June 13, 2016, some news agencies carried reports about the Ministry of Communications and IT having ordered ISPs to block 240 websites.

As far as we know, the Mumbai Police has not proceeded against any of the people who run these websites, whose phone numbers are available, and whose names and addresses are also available in many cases through WHOIS queries on the domain names.

Unfortunately, the government does not make available publicly the list of websites they have ordered ISPs to block. Given that knowledge of what is censored by the government is crucial in a democracy, we are publishing the entire list of blocked websites.

Those of these websites that use TLS (i.e., those with 'https'), still appear to be available on multiple Indian ISPs, and others can be accessed by using a proxy VPN from outside India or by using Tor.

Notes:

- The list circulated to ISPs has two sub-lists, numbered from 1-174 (but containing 175 entries, with a numbering mistake), and 1-64, for a total of 239 URLs.
- 4 URLs are repeated in the list ("www.salini.in/navi-mumbai-independent-escort-service.php", "exmumbai.in", "www.mansimathur.in/pinkyagarwal", "www.mumbaifunclubs.com")
- For one website, both the domain name and a specific web page within it are listed ("www.mumbaiwali.in" and "www.mumbaiwali.in/navi-mumbai-escort-service.php")
- One URL is incomplete (No. 214: "www.independentescortservicemumbai.com/mumbai%20escort%20servi..")

- There are thus 235 unique URLs, targetting 234 websites and web pages.
